Featured Sound: The Band Be Easy

Jacksonville-based band, Be Easy, lives up to its mellow mantra, weaving a unique blend of musical influences to create a sound that is as indescribable as it is infectious. Young men with old souls, this self-taught trio prides itself on its organic sound and delivers a live music experience that embodies their name.

Frontman and vocal phenom Aaron Grigsby brings a soulful passion to the microphone, reminiscent of the classic Motown hitmakers he was raised on, and his honeyed tone brings to mind Al Green and Gregg Allman.

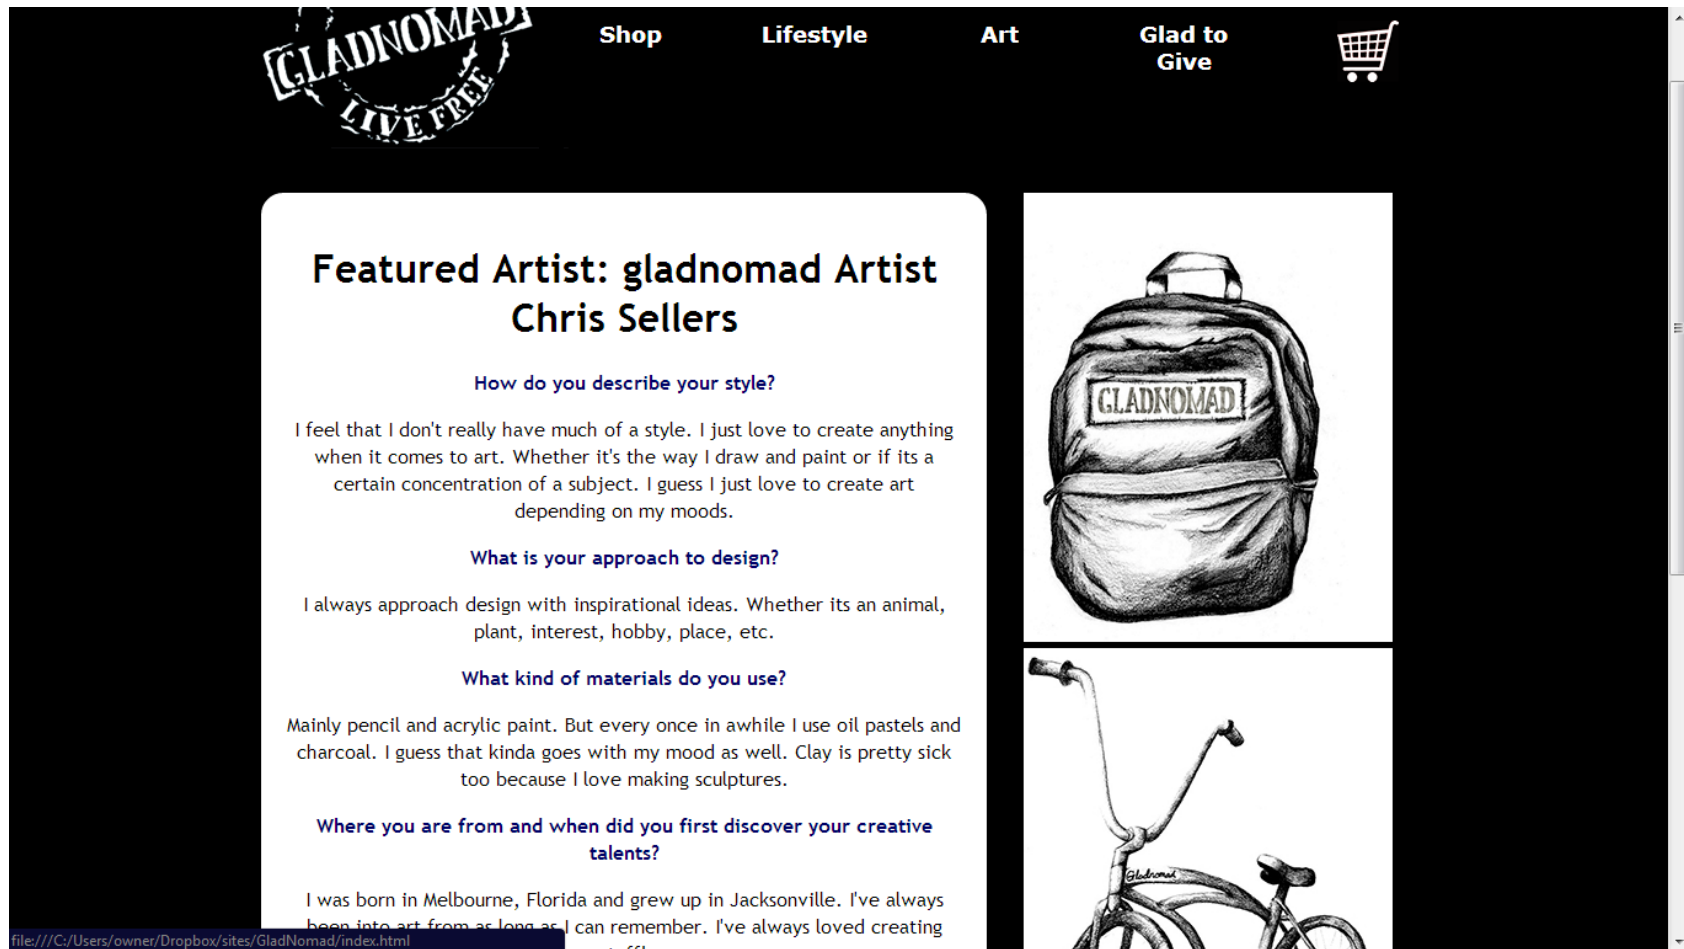

Frontman and vocal phenom Aaron Grigsby brings a soulful passion to the microphone, reminiscent of the classic Motown hitmakers he was raised on, and his honeyed tone brings to mind Al Green and Gregg Allman. Instrumentally, the six string skills of oft-barefoot guitarist Ryan Emling deliver Easy's groove-laden interpretations with a full, rich sound that belies his lone acoustic guitar. His nimble fingers exemplify the almost twenty years experience he brings to the band. Be Easy's youngest member, Justin "JMac" Macklin anchors the group with innovative worldbeat explorations on the djembe and cajon, rounding out this diverse union of sounds.

Together since 2010, Be Easy began in a small college town in southern Illinois before relocating to Jacksonville's music-friendly scene. Their grass roots "just love the music" approach has earned them several regular spots on the beach circuit, and last year, during the SXSW festival, an infamous impromptu performance in the middle of 6th Street drew thousands. Currently in the studio, Be Easy plans to release their first original album later this year.

What kind of materials do you use?

Mainly pencil and acrylic paint. But every once in awhile I use oil pastels and charcoal. I guess that kinda goes with my mood as well. Clay is pretty sick too because I love making sculptures.

Where you are from and when did you first discover your creative talents?

I was born in Melbourne, Florida and grew up in Jacksonville. I've always been into art from as long as I can remember. I've always loved creating stuff!

What inspires you to keep going and how do you keep yourself motivated?

Just my passion for art.

Describe yourself in five words.

That's hard... I'd say calm, happy, laid back, free spirited, and blessed.

Share with us something funny that has happened to you recently.

I had to give my cat a bath the other day cause she was so dirty... it took 4 of us to make it possible and it still didn't work out as expected. Ahaha

Any last words of advice to inspire up and coming artists?

Just express yourself through your art no matter what it is you like to do. Cause I still love doing what I do to this day. And don't let anybody try to stop you from doing it!

Give

gladnomad gives back to the Jacksonville community through volunteerism and financial assistance. We're pleased to showcase groups who care about creating a better world for all.

Glad to Give Spotlight: Surfers for Autism

The Surfers For Autism mission is to unlock the potential of people with developmental delays, support advocacy for autism issues and scientific research. Our focus is to eliminate stigma through public awareness and education and to unite communities through volunteerism.

Our History

It was December of 2007 when a simple idea was presented to a small group of South Florida surfers by a member whose life and family have been touched by autism. The concept of introducing children on the autism spectrum to surfing took hold and the group began planning for the inaugural Deerfield Beach event.
